Abstract:

When planning for work events or social gatherings, it is necessary to ensure a system of communication between the event organizers, and people attending. In this project, we utilize the iOS platform to create an app capable of connecting people and organizing gatherings with ease. Users will be able to reduce the time-consuming process of coordination by using event templates, polling capabilities, messaging services, location search in map, notifications, and invitation services. In addition, we discuss future implementations for a website platform and an Android app equivalent.
